

User or Training Documentation

This is information for the user to learn how to set up and use SeniorityRules. Both prototypes are to be used on a web browser (like Chrome, Explorer, Safari, etc.).

Prototype 1:

Setup: When SeniorityRules Prototype 1 is first opened, no initial set up is required.

Make a call: Simply begin by clicking the 'Make Call' button. To proceed, a link will be provided for you. To send this link to your friend:

1. Click the 'Copy' button next to the link.
2. Navigate to your email and compose a new email to this friend.
3. Right click to select 'Paste'.
4. Then 'Send' the email.

When your friend has received and clicked the link, you will see them on your screen. Enjoy your video call!

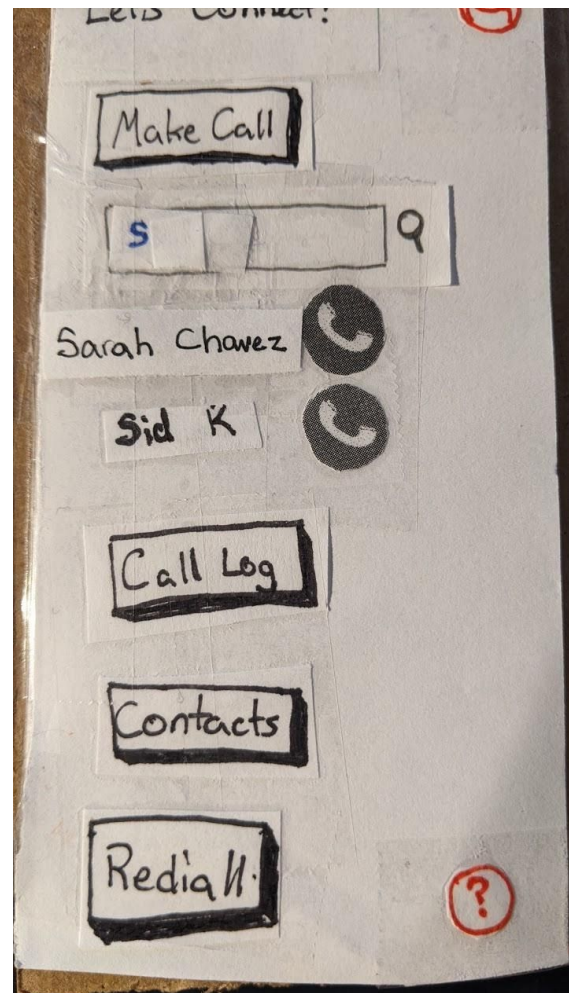

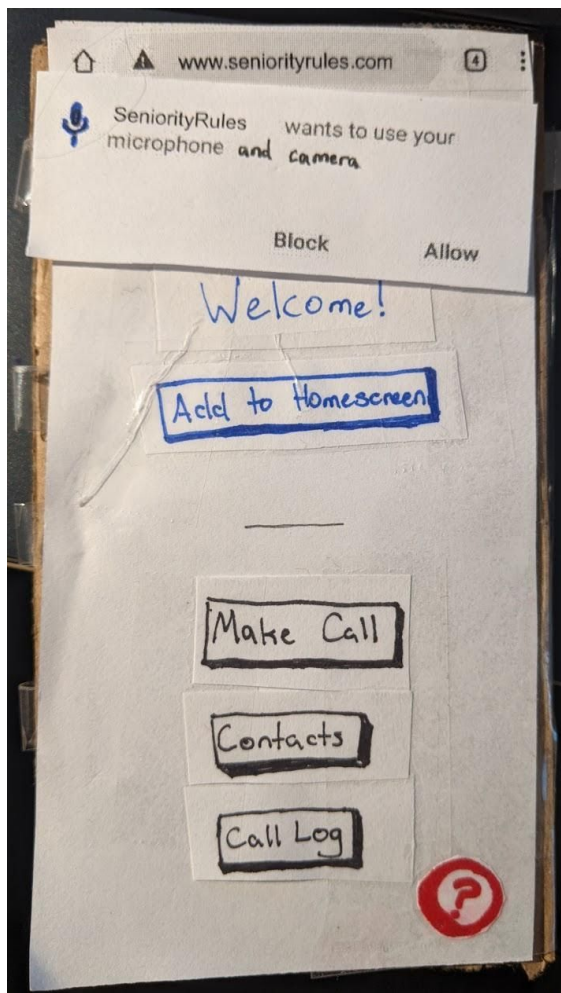

Emotional Enhancement: If there are video complications due to connection issues, a message will appear to tell you. In its place, we will display pictures of your friend's emotions as they talk to help you have more meaningful conversations.

Prototype 2:

Registration: When SeniorityRules Prototype 2 is first opened, you will be prompted to make an account. Select to either sign in with your Apple, Google, Facebook, or email account. To do this, find your username and password for the account type you selected, enter them in and register.

Setup: Once registered and logged in, you will be redirected to the homepage. You will receive a prompt to allow SeniorityRules to utilize your microphone and camera, click 'Allow'. This allows your friends

Add to Home Screen: If you do not wish to go to your browser to use SeniorityRules, click the 'Add to Homescreen' button. Go to your homescreen and you find the app icon for SeniorityRules. Click this app any time you wish to use SeniorityRules.

Make a Call: Click the 'Make Call' button, type the name of your friend you wish to contact, and click the dial button. Additionally, you can also click the 'Contacts' button to peruse all your friends, the 'Call Log' button to find someone you recently spoke with, or the 'Redial' button to immediately call back the last person you spoke with.

All your friends who also have SeniorityRules will be listed in your 'Contacts'. Once your friend accepts your call, you will see them on your screen. Enjoy your call!

Logistics: Your screen shows your friends video and your video. You can choose to turn your camera and audio on or off via the toggle switch below the video feed. If you need additional help at any time, click the '?' button.

Messaging: SeniorityRules utilizes an email-like system for sending messages while in a call. When your friend sends a message, a notification will appear at the corner of the 'Mail' Icon button. To read, respond to, or send a message, click this icon and draft a message just as you would an email. A log of the previous messages will be kept for you.

Avatar and Emotions: Two of the toggle switches are for turning on and off your friends avatar and emotion processing.

What is an avatar?: An avatar is a picture we will use when your friend's video or your video is not available. To enhance your experience of feeling connected to your friend, we will display pictures of their emotions as they speak. When your friends video is not available, this will turn on automatically. You can turn it off by clicking the 'off' switch marked 'Avatar'.

What is the emotions?: The emotions are turned on automatically when your friend's video is not available. This is to help you better understand what your friend is saying by indicating the emotion category they are currently expressing (i.e. 'Happy', 'Sad', 'Angry', 'Excited'). This will be displayed on your screen. You can turn it off by clicking the 'off' switch marked 'Emotion'.
